

AusID Global is a uniquely Australian approach to personality profiling that is fun, effective and easy to apply.

International students complete an online app, consisting of a series of questions which have no right or wrong answers, to profile the individual. Once completed, the student will be matched with one of four Australian animals which becomes their totem. They will also be provided with an explanation of their communication styles and behavioural traits. Initially this is in English but can be provided in other languages.

Learning about the characteristics of their totem assists the student to have a greater awareness and understanding of themselves in relation to work, life and learning. It assists students and their teachers to understand the individual's values and deeper needs when considering future study options or choice of career.

Testimonial

“Becoming an Australian animal was a lot of fun. The Australian animal that my personality matched with was very accurate and helped me to appreciate my personality traits. I used to think that being sensitive was a negative part of my personality, but after learning more about my personality trait I now understand that it is a positive part of my personality.”

Mirai Kondo, Japan

To create a more in depth understanding of each student's totem, a dynamic workshop can be arranged for any level of English understanding. These are complimented by a range of high-quality books and resources for high level academic student programs. As the workshops are in English, they are a great combination with ESL lessons or as a stand-alone activity as each workshop takes up to 2-3 hours to deliver effectively. The course is designed to help maximise the potential of students by providing a colourful and easy to understand framework of reference for how people communicate and interact. It explains: - Why people approach tasks differently - Ways for people to work together more effectively - Ways to improve your communication skills - How to promote greater tolerance and understanding.

The aim of the program was originally to better engage students at school. This was achieved by improving the relationship with their teachers and fellow students, growing their confidence by understanding their learning styles, and maximising their opportunity for success. It is also suggested that a lack of positive self-identity can be a contributing factor in cases of self-harm. The AusID Global program has helped students to realise it's ok to not fit into the standardised model that society encourages and has had a positive impact on teenagers in particular. This is hugely important given that one in three high school students are predicted to experience mental health issues in the future.

The program teaches students how to manage stressful situations according to their personality type, adopt the best study skills for their type, improve communication thereby allowing them to build better friendships, create better relationships with their parents, identify career paths, reduce bullying through the development of greater resilience, and generally how to view themselves in a positive light. A lot of it is about mental and emotional well-being, which has an obvious positive flow-on effect in their studies.

To date, the mother program has been introduced in over 350 schools in Australia and showcased directly to over 30,000 students. A further 20,000 adults, 70% of which are teachers, have been introduced to the program and have since shared the program with their students. As a result, the total number of students exposed to the original program is now estimated to be over 100,000.

How can schools use the program for International students?

Excursion groups: As an activity prior to coming to Australia, students can log in and use the app. This provides them with their totem and is just a taste of what their totem means with the opportunity to share with friends.

Study Tours : As an activity prior to coming to Australia, students can log in and use the app. This will be combined with a training program in Australia on how this knowledge can help the individual in their studies and future careers. This can be extended to a book introducing the animal types, which becomes interactive through the use of the app, so the animals speak for themselves.

Academic Programs & Long-Term Students

AusID Global training programs assist academic programs and long-term International students learn how their individual personality traits affect them in life and in learning. It provides them with a greater Self Awareness and Integrated Life Skills that will provide them with strategies to assist them in immersing into the Australian Culture and Lifestyle effectively. These strategies along with additional skills such as learning how to understanding what others are saying, increasing confidence and self-esteem will ultimately reduce disengagement, depression or other mental health conditions that can arise with our international students while studying abroad

AusID Global training programs provide students with the opportunity to learn how to effectively communicate based on their personality profile improving communication outcomes both at home and in the classroom. Effective communication skills assist students with immersion into the Australian culture as they understand how they fit in which results in better relationships with their host families, teachers and new friends.

The team at AusID Global look forward to working with you and your group to provide an innovative and unique Australian program that helps improve performance by identifying personalities in the classroom, and helps students realise more of their innate potential through improved confidence and emotional and mental well-being, thereby reducing the possibility for low self-esteem or self-harm.

Testimonial

“I’ve always said that people don’t need or shouldn’t need a routine and we can live without “standards”. However, I am a person who really likes and needs a routine. I didn’t understand this about my personality until I took did the AusID Global App. The Australian character that I was matched with was very accurate to my personality and helped me realised behaviours that are a part of my personality I was not aware of.”

Maria Alejandra Niño, Colombia

Testimonial

“Having done other extensive personality tests previously, I was surprised to see how accurate this test is. Linking your personality to an Australian animal makes it easy to remember and to relate to. It is also fun to discuss the results with others and understand how you are different or similar and how you fit into a team.:
